One of the most famous examples of a masterpiece that outlived an empire is the Mona Lisa. Painted by Leonardo da Vinci in the early 16th century, the Mona Lisa is one of the most iconic and recognizable works of art in the world. It has been stolen, vandalized, and even used as a target for political protests. But despite all of this, the Mona Lisa has survived and continues to be one of the most popular tourist attractions in Paris.

Another example of a masterpiece that outlived an empire is the Venus de Milo. This Greek statue, created in the 2nd century BC, is one of the most famous works of ancient art. It was discovered on the island of Melos in 1820 and has since been housed in the Louvre Museum in Paris. The Venus de Milo has been damaged over the years, but it has been carefully restored and remains one of the most popular exhibits in the museum.
